

Patti & Kenny

Great American Songbook + Humor + Stories

Patti Dean worked her way through college in the late 1970s as vocalist with a premier small jazz band in the South, led by a former Woody Herman sideman. She later toured as lead singer of a rock band throughout the U.S. and segued into stand-up comedy at the Improv in NYC. Patti also wrote and performed in several off-Broadway plays. After 5 years of service work in Vietnam and Mongolia, she is returning to her musical roots-this time at the piano. View her current work on Instagram @PattiandPhillip and Patti Dean on Youtube.

Kenny Mandell born in Brooklyn, NYC, began his musical journey on saxophone and flute, later expanding into hand drums and percussion instruments from around the world. Since moving to the Northwest, he has played every jazz club from Portland to Canada. An educator, jazz festival producer, and workshop leader, Kenny teaches people of all ages how to make and play instruments. He currently hosts three jazz jam sessions a month, leads two weekly drumming workshops, and performs regularly with the New World Ensemble at the Couth Buzzard Bookstore.
